

WOMEN IN PRAYER ON SHIP AS CREW SAVES FIVE LIVES

Thrilling Rescue of Schooner's
Company Seen from Liner's Deck.

SECOND OFFICER HERO.

Bange Braves Icy Seas and Clings to Wreck's Mast to Cheat Death.

Passengers on the Old Dominion steamship Jefferson, snugly lying in her berth at the foot of Beach street, North River, to-day, witnessed a scene of horror and heroism seldom surpassed in the annals of the sea, after the liner, on her way from Norfolk, cut down the three-masted schooner Emelle E. Birdsell, bound from Bermuda Hundred for New York, with a cargo of railroad ties, ten miles off Winter Quarter Lightship, on the Virginia coast, three hours before sunrise yesterday.

Mate Herbert M. Robinson, of Massachusetts, and two of the schooner's crew lost their lives. Capt. Joseph E. Riatta, Ira E. Pettigrove, the cook, and John Edward Enjman and Alexander Steinburg, seamen, of the Birdsell, were rescued, largely through the heroism of Second Officer Frederick Bange, of the steamer, who lives at No. 126 Columbia avenue, Jersey City. He headed off two of three rescue boats, and charged the third, which was being blown away from the wrecked vessel, and on the mainmast of the partly submerged stern of the schooner, after saving one of the seamen of the wrecked vessel.

The night was clear and dark, when it is difficult to see objects close by. Bailing vessels are supposed to have out a "torch" at the stern to warn of steamships making the same course. The Birdsell had out no torch, and its side and binnacle lights were invisible, according to Second Officer Bange, who was in command of the Jefferson at the time.

Cut Nearly in Two.

Capt. Riatta, of the schooner, headed northwest by north on the port tack, said he started for his torch when he saw the masthead light of the Jefferson, which seemed to veer suddenly toward him, but the steel cutter of the steamer loomed up and cut more than half way through the schooner on the starboard side, between main and mizzenmasts.

"All hands on deck!" shouted Capt. Riatta, as the Jefferson began to back out. The schooner's mate, Robinson, jumped for the bow of the liner and fell into the sea. John A. Finn, at the wheel, was knocked overboard by the shock of the collision and disappeared. The mate, a good swimmer, succeeded in reaching some wreckage, and his shipmates heard his cries for more than an hour before he succumbed.

The cargo of ties, sliding into the sea, collected about the sinking schooner, and made it impossible for a boat from the liner to get near the wreck. Second Officer Bange aroused Capt. Hildner, who directed the steamer's searchlight from the bridge. The thirty-five passengers, despite the cutting wind, went to the rail and watched the first boat launched, a few fainting and others praying.

Ties Menaced Rescuers.

Filling rapidly and listing to starboard, the schooner's crosscreeper crept the swim.

Capt. Riatta, the only man except the one at the wheel, dressed for the weather, kicked off his heavy boots to crawl into the surf, followed by four of his crew. As the Jefferson's boat, in charge of Bange, vainly tried to get through the tangle of ties, the liner's searchlight disclosed the five men clinging desperately to the swaying spar. Two of the men in the lifeboat and their boat mustered in such haste that they were not fully dressed, and quickly became numb and helpless, and the boat put back for two more men.

Although the hoisting derrick crashed against the frail craft with such force as to threaten destruction when it returned, it passed forward a unit which it carried a passage to the shipwrecked men, and a crew went up from the expected passengers on the liner.

The skipper and crew made the leap to the boat in safety, but a seaman known only as Otto, who slipped at Norfolk, missed and fell into the sea.

Bange to the Rescue.

Mate Bange, who had on a cork jacket, was overboard in an instant and succeeded, after a struggle in the icy water, in dragging him to the top of the wreck. Then the boat backed out, leaving the mate, Steinburg, Pettigrove and Enjman on the spar. The skipper and cook were taken aboard the liner, and a boat of rescue men was sent to the wreck. In the meantime, Bange, revealed the scene in all its ghastliness. Many of the women passengers, lying recovered from their fright and propped themselves with warning, "Don't be alarmed to duck and several knelt in prayer for the success of the third boat that put on from the Jefferson, in charge of Third Mate Gustav Kue. The rescue was a triumph, many of the bodies having been washed away. Bange, thrust with the anchor and from the Otto into a boat and the boat sailed followed.

Then the last of the deckload of ties plunged into the water, the schooner settling until only her topmast showed. Otto was too nearly dead to be revived, and died on the Jefferson later.

FROZE TO DEATH IN COAL BUNKER OF A STEAMER

Unidentified Man Had Sought
Shelter on the Grace
Liner Cozca.

An unidentified man was found frozen to death in the coal bunker of the steamship Cozca, of the Grace line, anchored at the foot of Dwight street, Brooklyn, to-day.

The man is believed to have gone on the boat some time during the night to keep out of the cold. There was no fire aboard, and he is thought to have fallen exhausted and expired.

The body was discovered by Hans Wolf, an engineer employed on the steamship. Wolf called the police and the body was sent to the morgue. The man appeared to have been about forty years old. His clothes were thin and showed much wear.

HEARTSICK FOR WIFE, TRIES TO END LIFE

Young Bride's Appeal From Germany Causes Kuhnner to Inhale Gas.

Charles Kuhnner tried to kill himself with gas at his home, No. 108 Webster avenue, the Bronx, to-day, because he hadn't been able to earn enough money to bring his young wife from Germany. He had heard a lot about easy money in this country, and he believed it would not be long before he had established a home and could send for his wife, who had been left behind while he went forth alone to make his way in a new country.

Things have gone hard on Kuhnner. At times he was working as a driver and at other times there was no work to be had. There came a letter from the wife in Germany last night. Just what the letter said Kuhnner did not tell Karl Brunt and his wife, with whom he has been making his home. He admitted, however, that he was heartsick. Brunt went to Kuhnner's room to call him for breakfast to-day and found him unconscious, with the gas turned on. Kuhnner was taken to Lebanon Hospital. The doctors say he will recover.

MISS HARRIMAN TAKEN ILL, GOES TO HOSPITAL

Removed to Johns Hopkins From Baltimore School—Mother Visits Her.

BAITIMORE, Feb. 5.—Miss Cornelia H. Harriman, daughter of Mr. E. H. Harriman, who for two years has been a pupil in St. Timothy's School in Catoctinsville, is a patient in the Johns Hopkins Hospital, and is under the care of two physicians.

Miss Harriman has been suffering for a few days from ear trouble. Her mother came on from New York and is at present in Baltimore.

It was said this evening that Miss Harriman was getting along nicely and was responding to the treatment.

At the residence of Mr. Harriman, in Fifth avenue, it was said last night that Miss Harriman became ill of a severe cold several days ago while at the boarding-school, and that upon her going to the Johns Hopkins Hospital her mother went to Baltimore to be with her. Miss Harriman's illness, it was asserted, is not serious.

Tailored Waists

Sale of Women's Glace Gloves

Infants' Dresses Underpriced

Women's Bath Robes and Kimonos

Words and music of the "Soul Kiss Waltz Song" as produced at the New York Theatre with Genee, the world's greatest dancer, will be given in the Magazine Section of next Sunday's World. Order from your newsdealer in advance—his supply is limited. Remember advance order is necessary.

There is little excuse for reducing the prices on these Waists, as they are in styles which will be high in favor during the coming Spring. Still, to make room for newer goods, their prices are lowered, thus:

Tailored Waists, of non-shrinkable flannel in smart stripes and plaids; also pure linen Waists, with deep plaits and French tucks; also hand-made linen Waists, daintily hand embroidered, formerly priced 5.00 to 6.50, now . . . at 3.00

Plain, tailored Waists, in linen and figured mercerized madras, many side-plaited; mannish sleeve, formerly 2.50 & 3.00, now at 2.00

Exceptional circumstances enable us to offer these Gloves for less than they would ordinarily cost at wholesale:

French glaze kid Mousquetaire Gloves, 12-button length, in black, white and colors, at 1.50 a pair

Regularly 2.50

For Thursday and Friday, we place on sale the remainder of our stock of Children's Russian and Waist Dresses in odd sizes, made of madras, pique and linen:

Russian Dresses, 2 to 6 years . . . . . 1.50 to 3.00
Formerly 2.25 to 4.50

Waist Dresses, 3 to 6 years . . . . . 3.00, 3.50 and 4.00
Formerly 5.00, 5.25 and 6.00

More than half of these garments are now marked at less than one-half the prices they were intended to bring:

Bath Robes of fine eiderdown, in solid colors; plain or trimmed . . . . . at 2.50 and 4.50
Formerly 4.75 to 10.50

Full-length Kimonos, of outing flannel in pretty floral designs; trimmed with satin banding . . . . . at 1.25
Formerly 2.75

Dainty Dressing Sacques of eiderdown and flowered outing flannel, trimmed with satin, at 65c and 95c
Formerly 1.25 to 2.00

Sixth Avenue, Eighteenth to Nineteenth Street, New York (Formerly occupied by B. Altman & Co.)

Continuation of Our Great Half Price Sale

For Women, Misses and Girls.

This after-inventory sale is the greatest event we have ever conducted. It is little to be wondered at when you think that our entire stock has been subjected to a discount of 50 per cent. For example—Gowns formerly $50 now $25. Suits and coats that were $20 now $10. Girls' $5 dresses and coats now $2.50. Skirts heretofore $5 now $2.50. Furs are also involved—nothing has been spared—the reductions are general and apply to every garment on hand.
